Connecting Learning To Life

September 5, 2019

To Whom It May Concern,

I am currently the Assistant Elementary School Principal at Saigon South International School and I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Jeremy Neldon. I have worked with Jeremy at Saigon South International School since August 2017.

As a classroom teacher, Jeremy has embraced the challenges of delivering a rich and dynamic academic program. He is firmly committed to understanding, supporting, and improving our school's academic program by researching, discussing, and actively engaging in professional development opportunities.

Jeremy empowers his students to be independent thinkers—giving them a voice in their own learning. He facilitates class meetings in order to develop communication, collaboration, and leadership skills, which align with our core values. It is evident how well he knows and cares about his students.

Instructionally, Jeremy models, monitors, and confers with his students—meeting their needs and guiding them. Jeremy is an energetic and animated teacher and he has the ability to enthusiastically engage his students. He is skilled at designing units of study that encourage critical thinking. While working with his students, his instruction includes appropriate praise and feedback, which enables them to take acceptable risks.

Jeremy is passionate about continuous improvement and he is willing to take initiative in order to support positive changes. He has the ability to see the big picture and he has the energy and experience to influence change. He is an asset to Saigon South International School and is the type of educator that will help any institution on a quest to improve upon excellence.

Sincerely,

Donna Norkeliunas, Ed.D
Elementary School Assistant Principal
